IN THE SOCIAL WORLD

Japanese Ambassador Gives Large Reception.

MRS. HENDERSON ENTERTAINS

Hostess at Tea to Members of the Congressional Club—Wife of the Chilean Minister Gives Luncheon in Honor of Mrs. Nabuco—Conrad Carson Wedding at Winchester.

The Japanese Ambassador held a large and brilliant reception last evening in his K street home, his guests numbering between 300 and 400. The house, which is the former home of the late Senator and Mrs. Sherman, of Ohio, and built by them, was effectively decorated with greens and the blossoms of the season, which lent a charming effect amid the Japanese bric-a-brac and furnishings. The guests were asked for 10 o'clock.

The Ambassador received, assisted only by members of his embassy staff, Mr. Keishiro Matsui, the counselor; Mr. Masanao Hanhara, the second secretary; Mr. Matsuzo Nagai, the third secretary; Mr. Isaburo Yoshida, attaché; Commander Naomichi Taniguchi, the naval attaché, and Maj. Kunishige Tanaka, the military attaché. The guests included the members of the diplomatic circle, the Supreme Court circle, the Cabinet circle, and official society pretty generally, besides many members of the smart resident set.

Mrs. J. B. Henderson, wife of ex-Senator Henderson, of Missouri, entertained the members of the Congressional Club at a tea yesterday afternoon in her home, Boundary Castle, on upper Sixteenth street. Mrs. Perkins, wife of Representative J. B. Perkins, of New York, president of the club, assisted Mrs. Henderson in receiving the guests, and assisting them were Mrs. Scott, wife of Senator Scott, of West Virginia, and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, nee Roosevelt, the two last named presiding at either end of the table, which was laid in a beautiful banquet room of Boundary Castle, which is also the art gallery. The guests were Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, the wives of the members of the House of Representatives, the wives of the members of the Supreme Court, and the greater number of the wives of the visiting governors.

Mrs. William H. Taft, wife of the Secretary of War; Miss Cannon, daughter of the Speaker of the House of Representatives; Mrs. Hope Slater, Mrs. C. A. Williams, Miss May Williams, and Miss Mary Gwynne occupied a box in the Columbia Theater yesterday afternoon at the musical Art Society. Herndon Morell was conductor, assisted by the Boston Festival Orchestra; Mme. Florence Mulford, mezzo soprano; Dr. Franklin P. Lawson, tenor; Mr. Frederick Martin, bass; all of New York, and Mr. Carl Webster, cellist, of Boston, and Mrs. Oscar Franklin Comstock, pianist, of Washington. Mme. Zelle de Lussan and Mr. Angelo C. Fronani, who in private life are Mr. and Mrs. Fronani, also occupied a box.

The President entertained at dinner last evening in the White House in honor of the visiting governors, who will be in Washington the remainder of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh and Miss Walsh, having closed their Massachusetts avenue mansion, left Washington yesterday for their Colorado home, Wolhurst, near Denver, which is the former home of the late Senator Wolcott.

Mr. and Mrs. George Baker, of New York, who spent the week-end as guests of Senator and Mrs. Elkins, have returned to their home in the metropolis.

Mrs. Tallmadge, Miss Tallmadge, and Mrs. Henry Hobart Tallmadge, of 1326 Irving street northwest, will be at home from 3 to 6 this afternoon, when they will be glad to see their friends.

Mrs. William H. Holmes and Mrs. Claude Clifton will leave Washington Friday and sail on Saturday for a summer tour of Europe. They will remain until the late fall, and Mrs. Holmes will gather material for a continuance of her interesting lectures and research on "Home Decorations."

Mr. Uriel Davis, one of Washington's well-known musicians, was given a pleasant surprise last Sunday evening in his parents' residence, in Twelfth street northeast, in honor of his birthday. The house was tastefully decorated in pink, La France and American Beauty roses being the most prominent.

Music and games were indulged in until a late hour, when a delightful repast was served. The table was unique in its pink decorations of La France and American Beauty roses, which were presented to the guests on their departure. Mr. Davis was the recipient of many handsome presents.

Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Greenwood received their guests among whom were the Misses Jennie Kahn, Jennie Livingston, Essie Livingston, Bessie Schwartzman, of Baltimore; Fannie Yoffe, Fanny Coslin, Cecilia Coslin, the Misses Rothstein, Beatrice Davis, and Messrs. George Cohen, W. A. Graff, of Newport News; Louis Watzman, Rudolph Bernman, Albert Bernman, James Dreis, I. Pelzman, Samuel Fenton, of Alexandria; C. M. Johnson, Meyer Davis, David Davis, and Uriel Davis.

Mr. Harvey Craig Ansley, formerly of Alexandria, now of this city, announces the engagement of his daughter, Annie Wilberg Ansley, to David Shelby Davis, of Chicago.

The engagement is announced of Miss Sidney Tinsley Taylor, formerly of Roanoke, Va., now of this city, to Mr. George Homer Alexander, of Evansville, Ind.

Mrs. B. B. Bradford entertained at a bridge party yesterday afternoon in her apartments in the Highlands.

Miss Blanche Willis Emory has joined her mother, Mrs. William H. Emory, wife of Rear Admiral Emory, in their Demonstration of the Famous Stillman Safety Lamps.

EVERY user of oil lamps should see this demonstration, which proves conclusively that Stillman Lamps are absolutely the safest and most satisfactory oil lamps made.

Important and distinctive features of Stillman Lamps:

Will Not and Can Not Explode.
They Go Out if Dropped.
They are Odorless.

The Oil cannot Splash (a great danger in other lamps).
The Oil is Cold (hot oil causes explosion in other lamps).

The Oil is fed from the bottom of the font and is always Remote from point of ignition.

The same quantity of oil lasts much longer in the Stillman because of Perfect Combustion of the hydrocarbons. They give a Brilliant Light.

On account of their Absolute Safety the most Price cannot measure their Real Value.

Can be Blown Out with absolute Safety or Turned On as easily as Gas.

Prices of Stillman Lamps:
Painted Tin, with chimney... $7.50
Brass, with chimney... $12.50
Brass, large size, with white shade... $22.00

home, in Connecticut avenue, after spending some time with friends in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hague have returned to Washington from a short stay in Newport, where they were superintending the arrangements for opening their cottage for the summer.

Mrs. Arthur Lee, with her children, went to Atlantic City yesterday for a visit of several weeks. Mrs. Lee closed her house in Massachusetts avenue, and direct to her father's country place, "Graceland," at Elkins, Va., where she always spends her summers.

Miss Julia Goldsborough, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. K. Goldsborough, left yesterday for Atlantic City, to remain with a party of friends and relatives for ten days.

Mme. Cruz, wife of the Chilean Minister, entertained at luncheon yesterday, with Mme. Nabuco, wife of the Brazilian Ambassador, as the guest of honor. The other guests were: Mme. Portela, wife of the Argentine Minister; Mme. Cortes, wife of the charge d'affaires of Mexico; Mme. Cortes, wife of the Minister of Nicaragua; Mme. Charnoff, of the Brazilian Embassy; Mrs. Beekman Winthrop, wife of the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury; Mme. Juan Attwell, Mrs. William Barrett Ridgely, Mrs. John W. Timmons, and Mrs. George T. Mayne.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank Baker held a large informal reception last evening in their home in Columbia road in honor of their guest, Mr. John Burroughs, who accompanied the Chilean Minister, Mrs. Roosevelt, on their recent little jaunt to Mrs. Roosevelt's camp in the mountains of Albemarle County, Va.

An interesting engagement announced yesterday in New York was that of Miss Mary C. Willis, of that city, to Mr. James Alfred Roosevelt, a second cousin of the President. Mr. Roosevelt is the son of the late Alfred Roosevelt, of Boston. His mother was formerly Miss Katherine Lowell, a member of one of the prominent families of Boston. After Mr. Roosevelt's death she became Mrs. T. James Bowdler. Young Mr. Roosevelt was a student at Harvard, and is a member of the leading clubs in Boston. He has been spending the past winter in New York in the home of his grandmother, Mrs. James A. Roosevelt. He is a nephew of E. Reeve Merritt and of Mr. Wm. Emory Roosevelt. Miss Willis is the daughter of Mr. J. C. Willis, of New York, and belongs to an old Long Island family whose country home was near Oyster Bay. No date has been set for the wedding.

Prof. Cornelius Ruebner, who succeeded to the chair of music in Columbia University in New York after the retirement of the late Edward A. MacDowell, has had the degree of doctor of music conferred upon him by the George Washington University of this city. Dr. Ruebner is well known in Washington society and music circles, as he was conductor of the local orchestra during the winter, and has given piano recitals in many of the fashionable homes in Washington.

Mrs. A. C. Downing is in Newport making a short visit with Col. and Mrs. Addison Thomas.

Right Rev. Joseph Blount Cheshire, bishop of North Carolina, and Mrs. Cheshire are visiting the latter's father, Rev. Walter A. Mitchell, on C street. The bishop and Mrs. Cheshire will sail for England on Saturday, and while there will attend the Pan-Anglican Council and the Lambeth Conference. They will be abroad until the last of August.

ENGINEERS IN LINE

Speakers at Banquet Uphold Conservation.

SEE GREAT MOVEMENT AHEAD

In Addresses at Rauscher's, Given by the Washington Organization to the Presidents of the National Engineering Societies, Governors Receive Hearty Approval.

In honor of the presidents of the National Engineering societies, the members of the Washington Society of Engineers, in co-operation with the Washington members of the American Society of Civil Engineers, gave a banquet last night at Rauscher's.

The guests were called on for speeches. In all the addresses reference was made to the need of conservation of the national resources, for which President Roosevelt has called a conference of the governors of the various States of the Union.

List of the Guests.

The guests were: Mr. Charles MacDonall, president of the American Society of Civil Engineers, New York; Mr. John Hays Hammond, president of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, New York; Mr. John A. Ockerson, of the Mississippi River Commission; Mr. Charles B. Dudley, president American Society for Testing Materials; Mr. M. L. Holman, president of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

Mr. H. G. Stott, president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, was too ill to attend.

The president of the Washington Society of Engineers, Mr. Arthur Powell Davis, chief engineer of the United States Reclamation Service, was toastmaster, and introduced the speakers.

Before introducing the speakers, Mr. Davis made a brief speech of welcome. He said, in part:

"Since the dawn of modern civilization along the close of the dark ages, scientific advancement has increased at a constantly accelerating rate, so that we who now occupy a temporary place on earth, are realizing an era not only of highest development along material lines, but of the most rapid progress of such development ever known to the world. It requires no great sagacity to perceive that this rapid development is to continue for some time into the future."

"Most prominent among those who have accomplished so much for the wealth, comfort, and culture of mankind are the engineers of the world, and most prominent of these are the engineers of America, represented by their great national organizations, the executive heads of which honor us with their presence to-night."

"Some of those among us can well remember when engineers were few, and engineering, as such, scarcely recognized as a learned profession."

Address by Mr. Hammond.

Mr. Davis introduced Mr. John Hays Hammond, president of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, who said, in part:

"It has unfortunately become our custom to speak of the natural resources of our country as illimitable, and, consequently, to regard the discussion of the conservation of these resources as academic, or at the best as scientific speculation. All efforts heretofore of a few enthusiastic theorists—as they were considered—have availed naught to disturb this imperturbable complacency and optimism. To-day, however, at the eleventh hour, we realize the gravity of the situation. We see that the greatness of our nation itself, based as it is upon its industrial, commercial, and financial supremacy, depends absolutely upon the conservation of its natural resources."

Mr. M. L. Holman, president American Society of Mechanical Engineers, was called on for an address. Among other things he said:

"The President, the Chief Executive of the United States, has called to Washington the governors, the chief executives of the sovereign States, for a conference on the conservation of the natural resources of our country."

"The engineering profession has been honored by invitations to the four national societies to be represented at this conference, and the presidents of these societies have been invited to participate. The event is of great importance in history, and the result of the conference will be the guidebook marking the road of the nation, where the nation takes the road leading to prosperity or continuance, like the prodigal son, to waste its inheritance in riotous living."

Mr. Charles B. Dudley, president of the American Society for Testing Materials, said, in part:

"A single phase of the subject that will occupy our attention for the next few days has caused me some thought. Every one conversant with the matter acknowledges the frightful wastefulness of the nation's resources which has characterized the past. It seems to me that this waste cannot all be attributed to greed."

Names of Those Present.

Covers were laid for eighty persons. Following is a list of those present: T. W. Symons, Kenneth Allen, J. W. Alvord, F. L. Averill, E. C. Barnard, Kurt Berle, D. O. Calum, D. S. MISS NEWBERRY SPONSOR.

Selected by Gov. Warner to Christen the Michigan.

Miss Carol Newberry, daughter of Truman H. Newberry, Assistant and Acting Secretary of the Navy, has been selected by Gov. Fred M. Warner, of Michigan, to act as sponsor for the battle ship Michigan at the formal launching of that vessel by the builders, the New York Shipbuilding Company, at Camden, N. J., on the morning of May 28.

De Courcy May, president of the company, called upon Mr. Newberry yesterday, and personally invited him to represent the Navy Department at the launching. Gov. Warner, who is now in Washington, the guest of Mr. Newberry, also was personally invited by Mr. May to be present with his staff.

The Michigan delegation in Congress has also been invited to attend, and invitations will be issued by the Navy Department to all the foreign naval attaches in Washington.

The Michigan, when completed, will be the largest American battle ship afloat, she having a tonnage of 16,000 and a broadside battery of eight twelve-inch guns equal to that of the Dreadnought.
